THE WAY HOW TO LEAVE A PEACEFULL LIFE.

PROSPER COMPANIES

Life is the period between birth and death, or as the condition of being alive.

Life is good and easy thing if you try to make it easy. Once you know what to do in life it can become good always.

In this book there are some messages and advises which can help on how to live a peaceful life.

No parent would like to see his or her child crying just because of miner mistakes in life it hurts a lot and that is one of the reasons why this book was written. By the time someone becomes a parent there are a lot of mistakes which were done just because of not understanding what to do in life just because of not knowing what to do and escape those traps. As a child the only thing you can do to enjoy your life is to listen and understand the advice from parents and work hard to put the advice in action and also to not forget what God is in your life, just in order to keep on moving and keep your path clear always.

My Children you are above of all things I love in this world because you're those people who makes me sit down in my room or anywhere and I think of you. you will be surprised if I tell you how many times I sits alone in different places quietly dealing with stress but when I walks back into the world I have to act like everything is fine unbothered and still smiles and keeps going like nothing is wrong, Am so resilient too and I carry a lot which other people can't know the half of it because I deal with it in silence I have no one to ask for help I just push through and I get up, I show up and I keep moving forward no matter how drained I feel behind that strength there is exhaustion but behind the exhaustion there is a will that refuses me to break in this journey of you my children, it's obvious am carrying my own burdens with strength and am doing all of this for your future.

Until I became a father to you my children, then I got to know and understands the pressure, the early mornings, the long nights, the sleepless nights forgetting what rest feels like because of my thoughts about you. Even if am not with you and even if am far away from you my father's responsibility never sleeps no one sees the mental weight I carry about you my children, the silent battles, the quiet sacrifices of being a father. Being a father is like being the backbone that never gets to bend I have to be the protector, the provider, the role model, the fixer, the steady hand. I have to stay clam under pressure even when everything is falling apart, I have to show strength even when am exhausted and somehow, I keep pushing through and keep showing up keep giving my best, that kind of strength its nothing short of powerful to me as your father. Even when it goes unnoticed, I am appreciated I am essential because it's my responsibility as a father to you.

My children am that person who wish you more than I wishes for myself and am that person who worries about how future will be when am around or even if when I take my last breath and spending my life thinking of how you will be when am gone. You know sometimes when I think of you, I pray to God to give you a soft life which is softer than mine. When I got you my children, I got to realize that you have to be in a good life which is better than mine. I want you to rise higher than what I ever did in life, I silently prays for your victories. Though you are not seeing it now, it won't be easy for you to see all the sacrifices I take or I took every single day for you, my children. And one day I will be gone and that will be the day you will lose the one man who loves you as you are and who cares about you as you are my children, because am your army am your one-man army because am always there for you even when I don't have, I try and try until I get for you.

Never be in competition with anyone else the only rival must be the person you are today and tomorrow because you are growing, you are learning, you are improving and that's what truly matters it must be you versus every day you must wake up ready push yourself further, you must challenge your limits striving to be the best person of yourself. Never let anyone else's success make you feel small their journey is theirs and yours is yours you know where you have come from and you know where you are going so keep pushing forward not to be better than anyone else but to be better than what you were before. That must be your purpose and when you look back one day you will know that every step, every struggle, every victory was yours alone. Your growth, your journey that's your legacy, in all of this you must find better ways you do things in life and find out the main reason why are you doing what you are doing just to keep going.

They will come to you when they need something from you, but when you need something from them, they will not be anywhere to be found. That's the difference between someone who truly cares and someone who is just passing time with you, and it will never just be looking for something from them it will be the way of caring to them no matter what that even in the middle of the busy day you will still take them as a priority but for them they will take as nothing when you need them. And it will be painful when you remember all the times you have been there for them when they needed you. You must know that sometimes friendship means letting go because friendship isn't something you should have to beg for it's felt it's shown, it's consistent and when someone makes you feel like you're an option in their problems only, it's your cue to stop making them your priority you deserve more, more than half being remembered only when there is a problem in their life, more than feeling like they are only asking for attention for there problems. A right friend will never make you wonder if you are enough, they will show you every day that you are important in every situation no matter what situation.

When you have a good heart you help too much, you trust too much, you give too much, you love too much and it always seems you hurt the most but never have time to hurt someone, use that time to be busy building yourself up and whom you want to be tomorrow. You either love you or you don't give a damn, never laugh with everyone and never be everyone's friend because friendship in the day and age is on the lips of many but in the hearts of very few calls you friend. But they will call you an enemy when you are no longer useful to them that's why you must not be everyone's friend only those who knows what friendship really means and who knows how to respect yours. Never do fake love and never beg anyone to stay in your life learn how to value loyalty not empty words or half-hearted actions the moment you feel disrespected just detach no drama no hate just distance. You don't need crowds just a solid few one who don't fold when life gets real, because real friendship isn't about convenience but it's about consistency.

In this life you must be careful of who you trust because salt and sugar they look the same but they are not the same. You must be aware that most people respect money not the person so when you have your money you must find out why exactly people are next to you so that you can be able to know the good people and bad people. The person you love the most can hurt you the most, this means that in life never expect to get what you give to others, you might love them when they don't do the same to you, you can be caring when they don't do the same too you, so be wise. In life make sure that two things define you, one your patience when you have nothing and your attitude when you have everything by your side, never do bad things just to get something in life no matter what try to be patient every thing have it's time. And when you achieve something never show it to everyone because it's not that everyone will be happy for your success.

Comparison is the thief of joy focus on your own journey and accomplishment, never think that if someone fails that you will fail too, your journey is yours and others, they have their own journey so focus on yours and live others on their own. Failure slaps in public success hugs you in private when you fail in life every one will be laughing at you and they will be happy seeing you in the corner of failures, but when you make it in life most of them, will not be happy to see you in happy life and enjoying so you must keep your success within you. Time doesn't heal anything it just teaches us how to live with pain, the ultimate truth is that trust means everything but once it is broken sorry means nothing because again it will live you in pain the batter thing to do is to keep the trust alive everyday and everywhere.

Regretting is part of life though trusting wrong people and believing in there words ignoring there actions thinking loyalty meant the same to them as you did to them, the only way to heal from this is to let them go because not everyone deserves a place in your life not everyone is meant to stay because some people are just lessons in disguise and once you learn that you stop begging for loyalty you stop holding on people who have already let go you will realize peace is better than closure, that silence can be an answer to you, stop overexplaining yourself, you must let people go without anger because protecting your peace is more important than proving your point. You stop chasing and start choosing you, your growth, your healing, your worth and that's how you level up quietly but powerfully. Life won't be easy without people around you the only thing to do is to know which people are you bringing around you never ever let everyone be you friend without knowing their intentions over you.

What if one day you go to sleep during an argument with someone and one of you doesn't awake up any more think about that for a second life is too short to be holding on to grudges too short your pride run the show when you are in the heat of an argument, never keep your self into arguments because we don't know what tomorrow might bring. When you know that you have no arguments it will set you free in everything you're doing and also being happy with others or people around you, in this world it's good to create a warm environment and people will be loving you or they will be free to work with you and it helps to achieve more and also it brings more opportunities in life. Never run away from situations the better way is to face them and find out how to solve them and also knowing that there is nothing which can last for ever and ever, because everything with a start it must also have an end.

Problems are also part of life and no one can run away from them the only thing which can be done is to find ways on how to face them.

Look in this world there is one investment that never fails and that is treating people right, when you treat people right you build bridges which money can not buy, you open doors you didn't even knock on sometimes it's not your talent that will lift you it's the way someone remembers how you made them feel when they had nothing, the truth is people forget what you say, they forget what you do but they never forget how you made them feel. Treating people right doesn't mean being perfect, it means being fair, being honest, being respectful when no one is watching and here is the powerful part in treating people right, every seed of goodness you plant in others grows in silence but when it's time to harvest the blessing will look nothing like the effort it will come pressed down shaken together and running over someone will defend you in your absence just because of how you made them feel in your presence and when life turns, it always does, the same people you lifted will remember to lift you so keep your heart clean, treat people with dignity even when they don't return it don't change your nature your reward doesn't come from people it comes from God. Because treating people right doesn't just pay off it pays back with interest keep doing good your harvest is on the way.

Recall this when you are treating others right don't expect them to give you what you gave them, like one of the biggest things is to do you part and expect from God. Be comfortable with your understanding and make your heart different and the energy attached to making others feel happy or to put others in a position to do good is a high-level energy and just because you have that it doesn't mean that other people should everybody operates differently right and everybody shows their or shows their value or shows their commitment differently. So, take the pressure off of others when you stopped expecting good from them, you to do what you do or to work the same way that you feel inside you. This world when you have nothing people seem to forget you exist, they don't call, they don't check in and they don't care about what you're going through you're on your own left to face your battles in silence, because no one will be there to understand your pain.

Never ever care who is ahead of you because you noy running their race you're running yours the only person you must compete with is who you were yesterday last year you were different you struggled you doubted but you grew you learned you got stronger everyday it must be you versus you. Never chase comparison you chase progress you push past your limits not to impress others but to become someone you're proud of your success doesn't intimidate you it inspires you because you know your path is unique, you're not there to be better than you, you're hire to be better than you was and when you look back one day, you'll see how far you have come not because it was easy but because you kept going when it was hard.

In life make sure that you don't regret the past because you won't be who you were back you've grown regret change you to what you can't fix learn forgive and move forward in life. Never fear the future because worrying doesn't prevent the storm it only steals today's peace, you're stronger than anything that's coming in life. Never and ever seek happiness in others because no one can fill your soul the way you can, the more you love yourself the more peace you'll attract in life. The most important never underestimate you're your power you will make it through days you will pass through, and never think of giving up that strength will still in you use it trust and you will become unstoppable in life and no one will overcome you.

You're going to have to do what is best for you even when it feels like shit you have to understand that what you tolerate and allow in your life is what you will get when someone shows who they are when someone shows you that they don't care when someone manipulates you do what you have to do and it's not going to feel good it's going to hurt because there is a bond there you must understand. And you can't continue to let people walk and stamp all over your heart and let them make you feel badly about yourself because they are unhealed you can do it, it will not fair to you and also it will also not be fair to them if you do it to them too take a stand for yourself even when it hurts a lot take a stand for yourself and walk away or fight for you peace in good ways and then they will call you a selfish because you will finally find and choose your self and stop their endless demands. They will call you sensitive but only because you will dare to trust your gut and read between the lines and if you stick to what you will be believe in refusing to follow blindly they will label you as stubborn and ungrateful that's the word they will throw at you when their tricks stop working and they will say you attitude is bad simply because you didn't let them walk all over you when you refuse to be fooled their smoke and mirrors they will tell you that you lack vision, but you know what king let them talk and responds when necessary. Never let people control you, you will always something to say never ever waste your time on their Nosie stay focused on your path on your growth when and when they try to trip you with their words never break free by being unapologetically yourself.

Every time will you fall you be learning and every time you will rise you will grow and when you fall more then seven times rising that's how legends are made not by perfection but by persistence you must keep moving. And when life knocks to your knees remember one thing that you have only one mission and that is to survive and when they say you can't make it and they keep on laughing at your struggle just scream if you have to but survive and overcome. When you are losing your path forward and the world feels like its collapsing around you just stand tall and hold your head high keep your back straight and make sure that you survive. Even if your life is not perfect just be thankful with what you will have, even if you face pain, you get stumbled and when there is time you feel left you feel like giving up through all of it you will get to know something powerful is inside you and just keep on going. And also, life is not about having everything by your side. It's not that you will always be happy in life there will be difficulties in your life because that is how life were set to be and we can't do anything to change it at all.

Even Superheroes needs to rest your "Father and your "Mother" are your superheroes and time will come when your heroes have to rest so you must be ready for that time. And by that time, you will become the most tired soul in the family and not because you will be the oldest but because you will be responsible to others. To be mature and responsible is to be able to put others first and you make your self selfless in the seek of others neither your young ones or your elders, to carry the emotional weight no one can see and you must grow up fast too fast while others got to be kids your must be helping raise them up, while others are crying you have to stay strong and become the fixer the listener and also the problem solver but who will check on you? who will listen to you? And who will understand your pain? That will be God.

You will always seem to be okay but deep down you will be exhausted and sacrifices silently and cries behind closed doors you will feel like breaks down but keep on because that's what the matures does, you must not complain and you must not quit but it doesn't mean that you're not hurting because even superheroes need a rest.

Our superheroes had a lot of paths to take but they decide to leave their path and take the same path with their children because they love you with everything, they have they made you as their priority in way you will never think of and in the ways you could never do it for anyone. They could have chosen other paths in life but out of all those options they will still choose you to stay as their priority and they will stay in all conditions and when finally, everything fall apart they will be there to fix everything to come back in normal. I am sure their presence will bring blessings to you and also the peace that will make your life soft their love will never be perfect in your eyes but, in their hearts, it will be real and it will never change. And never ignore someone who truly cares for you because someday you will realize that you have last diamond while you were busy collecting stones unfortunately there are many who can't be free, even if your Dad never says I love you it will makes you think that he don't care about you but what you will not see is that love which isn't always loud, he will show you up tired and worked himself into silence and he will not be hugging you and his last slice, he will not say it he lived that man teach you that real love will not in words because it will be in sacrifice and if you don't hear your dad saying that I love you never thinks that he doesn't do just look closer to him saying everything just without a single word "I love you".one day you will bury your father and that day you will realize you lost the only man who wanted to see you do better than him and were doing everything just for you. Here are some questions to ask your father before he dies or you get to know that he is no more firstly, what's your happiest memory of us? what were those first few days fatherhood like?

what do you want or wish most for your kids? when was the moment you felt most proud of me what's the nicest thing I ever done for you? what's the one thing you want me to always remember after your gone? because a father is your silent hero carrying the weight of the you on his back often times not getting recognized or appreciated as he deserves and as life moves forward they often forget to ask the question so take time out to speak with your father because one day it will be his wisdom love and presence that you will miss the most long after he gone and then you will become the most tired soul in the family and you will not be aware of what to do because of not seeking knowledge from him.

Let them talk and let them judge let them spin stories about you that you have never even heard let them count you out and miss the point of your journey because real success it comes with the courage to rise above the negativity that follows in life. Success requires four things from you, hard work, struggle, patience and self confidence these four things will help you pass through everything when people will be talking about. And also know that not that everything you lose is a loss sometimes that loss is freedom sometimes that loss is a blessing in disguise sometimes that loss is a second chance sometimes loss is a long-needed detachment so be happy be happy for that loss because may be that loss will be opening doors of your success.

Aman with no friends or a very small circle is a very secure man trust me has learned that quality matters more than quantity you don't need a crowd to validate your worth you must be confidence and let coming within you but not from approval of others you must not be afraid to stand alone and you must have your own strength you must be selective with your energy and whom you lets into your life you must see the fake friendships the drama and the gossip and walk away from all of it, you must build life that is peaceful and drama free and you will be happier for it. You don't need to be surrounded by a lot of people to feel complete and free you must be comfortable within your own company and you must know that true friends are rare and must rather have few real ones than a bunch of fake ones your small circle must be made up of people you can truly trust people who have proven their loyalty to you, never waste time on meaningless relationships. The moment someone make it clear that you are not important to them let them become as a stranger to you you must know that loyalty is everything if they can't see your worth then they must not have place in your life never ever waste time on people who don't vale you respect must be earned not given and you must respect to those who deserve it but the moment someone shows you that is not, that there is no care that person must lose your respect and your trust too because people come and go you must have no time for games or for people who think they can treat you any way, you must like simple respect from them and you respect them back they stand by you stand by them but if they decide to walk away never follow them, but if they are in your life remember that it's a privilege not aright never beg for attention and also never chase after anyone focus on those who matters to you and also who focus on you.

When it comes to love you must be careful because that's the part in life most of people cries the most because sex is not love though some people thinks that sex is love. To have sex with someone it doesn't mean that you love each other no, dating someone is not love, talking to someone 24 hours a day seven days a week is not love, staying awake all night for someone is not love. Love is when that person is voicing good things about who can stand by your side even if things went wrong by your side. Love is when you come out of your senses and that person who can calms you down. Love is someone who sees your tough side and still chooses to love you. It's someone who does things for you when you can't, someone who holds you and calms you when tears stream down your face. It's someone who expresses all good things about you when all you see is bad. it's someone who makes sure you are okay. It's someone who thinks of you every night and every day. It's someone who is constantly devoted to you no matter what. That is what love is in this world but remember to be careful.

In life many people face unique challenges and it comes to mental health, including societal expectations and stigma that can make it difficult to express feelings or seek support they think of drugs which doesn't even help anything to the problems, so whenever you get difficulties in life think of those people who can give you helpful ideas. Drugs will never be the solution for the problems because when you take it you forget the problems for the time and after sometime you will again meet them. But when you talk to someone who can advise you then you can overcome the problems. Sometimes to start the use of drugs it's because of the people we choose to be our friends or bad influences from our friends, always remind to walk away from people you see doing something wrong or things which are not good to accommodate in life. And when you get misunderstanding with anyone, when you are angry stay silent and don't waste your time with explanations sometimes silence is the best way to cope with your emotions because people only hear what they want to hear accept criticism but never accept disrespect, the best way to respect yourself is to discipline yourself persevere and never give up on something that you truly believe it's difficult to wait but it's more difficult to regret don't let success go to your head don't let failure go to your heart if you are a giver remember to know and learn your limits because the take don't have any remember it's better to cry than to be angry cause anger hurts others while tears flow silently through the soul and clean our hearts given us a fresh reset.

Always let your self be real not to be perfect because it won't be easy for you to be perfect in this world because even if how good you will be its not that everyone will appreciate the work of neither your hands nor your heart `so always to real no matter what. And you must have strength in your soul when you fail because failing is part of life, no one can run away from it the only thing to do is to be strong enough to stand up and walk again while knowing where you will be going the knowing your goals. You must always let your heart choosing peace whenever there are problems at the moment in between you and other people because you won't be able to know what other people will be thinking of you in everything because no one will be knowing each other's heart. You must have your smile even in the quite days of your life because even if you don't show your smile out no one will understand or care of what will be wrong with you my children yes life is so hard but you yourself you can make it soft as you. You must keep believing and love your journey because loving it and understanding what you want will help you focusing on the way and how to achieve everything in your path my children. Everything in your life and other people's life you must take them as lessons which will help you learn and correcting mistakes in your life my children because the best learner is someone who learners from other people's mistakes and take them as lessons and also learn from your mistakes as well.

Always hard times will come to your life and when they come always remember to love your self and look for ways how to overcome them and always loving yourself because no one will ever love you as you love your self-life is sweet when you make it sweet.

Death death! Death is certain to the point that everything in this world is irrelevant everything in this world is irrelevant means nothing, you will not take nothing with you, everything will be left behind the only thing that you will take with you is you believe to God, your actions, your righteous actions that's the only value you keep with you. Your money what you and wearing now, your qualifications every single thing on this world is irrelevant even your name will be gone people refer where is the deceased person where is the body, the body will be washed, the body will be prepared on the day of judgement the day you will be going to stand in front of Allah the day no wealth not me your parent will ever help you, no relationship will help you except those who understood Allah in a pure heart nothing nothing will remain with you after your death except your good deeds .being afraid of death is not the solution the only solution is to be prepared for the death and knowing what is the right thing to do before death.

My children you will hear a lot and a lot about God but you must be careful about God and listen and think very well from what you will be hearing from people about God, you must beware that there is only one God and is the creator of this universe and everything on it.

When you are reading this book even your knowledge is required just in case of anything because everyone makes mistakes just as humans.

THE END